A HEAVY ATTACK ON THE TURKISH POSITIONS AT AVALIAS HILL.

THE TURKS ROUTED AND RETREATED IN DISORDER.

Russian Account of the Defeat of Mukhtar Pasha—Position of the Armies—The Turkish Loss Heavy, Russian Light.

SEVEN PASHAS CAPTURED.

LONDON, October 17.—The Daily News' correspondent at the Russian headquarters in Asia telegraphs from Karajal Monday evening:

"Gen. Lazaroff, who, with twenty-seven battalions of infantry and forty guns, was recently despatched on a turning movement from here behind the Aladja-Dagh to Avilias Hill and Vezinkov, telegraphed last night from Bazardjik begging for assistance, as Mukhtar Pasha was before him with superior force. Thereupon, this morning our troops began an attack on the Turkish positions, and after heavy cannonading on our left wing with the Aladja batteries, we made a serious assault on Avilias Hill and redoubt. At noon the Caucassian Grenadines, under Gen. Heymann, stormed the hill and redoubt, capturing three Krupp guns. The Ezinhoy regiment occupied Aladja-Dagh, capturing the Turkish camp. The enemy retired in disorder in three directions, being cut off in the rear from Kars The pursuit was sharp everywhere, and will be continued to-morrow.

No news has been received yet from Gen. Lazaroff."

According to Russian official bulletins not only was Mukhtar Pasha decisively defeated on Monday, but the Turkish army utterly destroyed as a fighting integer. As made out from the dispatches the following was the position of the forces and course of the action: The Russians occupied positions as described in the dispatch of the 15th inst., of Yagni Hills, Sarbotan and Kezil Tepe, except that the Turks retained little Yagni, which is southeast of great Yagni. On the 14th inst., therefore, the Turkish left rested on little Yagni, the centre on Avalis or Olya Tepe, and the right on Aladja Dagh, where the three divisions were strongly fortified. Olya Tepe is a spur or hill midway between Yagni and Aladja, about fifteen miles east by south from Kars. Besides these positions the Turks occupied several strong places, such as Orlok and Vezinkoi, in the rear of their line, for the protection of their army and Kars from a flank attack. On Sunday the Russian left having been extended to the banks of Aspachai, beyond Ani, a division under Gen. Lazaroff moved south of Aladja Dagh, and drove the Turks from Orlok upon Vezinkoi and Kars and occupied Orlok, thus completely turning Mukhtar's right. On the morning of Monday, the 15th, heavy cannonading was directed against Olya Tepe, which was the key to the Turkish positions. In the afternoon Gen. Heymann, with about ten thousand infantry, carried Olya Tepe by assault, cutting the Turkish army in two. The centre and left wing, under Mukhtar himself, retreated upon Kars, pursued by Gen. Heymann, and harrassed in flank by Gen. Lazuroff, but he succeeded in gaining cover of fortifications of Kars after a fearful route, during which he lost a great number in killed and wounded, several thousand prisoners and four guns. The three divisions constituting the Turkish right had been surrounded and attacked and driven from their fortified camp with great loss, finally, at eight o'clock on Monday night, the remnant of this portion of Mukhtar's army surrendered, with thirty-two guns and a great quantity of material. Among the persons captured are seven pashas. Mukhtar Pasha is in Kars. Russian losses are stated to be relatively slight.

The Lock Patent Question Settled.

NEW YORK, October 17.—The long pending contest between James Sargent, of Rochester, and the Yale Lock Co., respecting a patent covering broadly the right to use a time or chronometer lock in a combination lock and bolt work, recently terminated by award of patent to Sargent. The interests of both parties to the recent contest have now been sealed for the interests of both joint arrangements between their owners. This action relieves some sixteen hundred banks already using either of the locks referred to from long threatened prosecution for infringement.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 17.—Harlan was nominated for the Supreme Bench. A hasty glance at the list fails to discover King's name among the nominations.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate—Mr. Beck introuced a bill authorizing the payment of fifty per cent. of customs duties in legal tender notes. Referred to committee on finance.

Mr. Thurman presented the credentials of Henry M. Spofford, elected U. S. Senator for Louisiana for six years from March 4th, 1877, asked that they be read and that Mr. Spofford now be sworn in.

Leonard concluded his speech in favor of referring both claimants in the Sixth and 8th Louisiana districts to the committee on elections.

Gen. Gibson is now addressing the House on a motion to seat Elam and Robertson, Democrats. Elam contests Smith, from the Fourth. Robertson contests Nash, colored, from the Sixth.

The credentials having been read by the Clerk, Mr. Mitchell moved as a substitute for Mr. Thurman's motion that the credentials be referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

Quite a lengthy discussion ensued on points of order.

The Democratic caucus this morning resolved to push the Louisiana Senatorial contest to an issue. The Republicans in the Senate are opposing it on the ground that the credentials are before the committee, the Democrats contending that the unfinished business of the committee's desk, and that these credentials are now before the Senate. This action on the part of the Democrats creates a sensation. An earnest debate is progressing.

Conkling is now speaking in favor of referring Spofford's credentials to the committee on privileges and elections.

Edmunds also argues that Spofford's credentials should go to the committee. They will probably take this course.

FRANCE.

Travellers Anticipated---Support of the Senate Doubtful

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Times' Paris correspondent says attitude already attributed to the marshal's advisers is disquieting. They are said to be resolved to use the unfortunate expression of Duke De Cases, in his last speech, not to disarm. It must be hoped that this is unfounded. It is doubtful, however, whether they can count on continued support of Senate.

Ex-Minister Washburne Denounces Subsidies.

WASHINGTON, October 17.—E. B. Washburne, ex-Minister to France, in a speech at Galena in answer to his welcome home took occasion to denounce unsparingly the subsidy schemes of the past and present, making special reference to the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Episcopal Convention.

BOSTON, October 17.—The Episcopal Convention decided against the appointment of a commission to consider what changes are necessary in hymnal.

NIGHT DISPATCHES.

FROM WASHINGTON.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, October 17.—The President to-day sent in to the Senate a long list of nominations; among them the following from North Carolina: Alfred V. Dockery, Consul General to Leeds, and R. C. Badger, District Attorney Eastern District of North Carolina.

Waddell, of North Carolina will introduce a bill to-morrow to establish the Western District Court of that State.

It requires but two republican votes to seat Spofford and Euslis.

SENATE.—The debate on Spofford's credentials was continued all day, and will be resummed to-morrow.

On a point of order Mr. Blaine sustained the Vice President as against Mr. Edmunds.

The debate to-day was mainly on points of order, and will continue to morrow.

Mr. Ferry was made Chairman of the Committee on Postoffices and Postroads. Mr. Hamlin was made Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations.

HOUSE.—Messrs. Elam and Robertson, Democrats, were seated, by a vote of 144 to 119. These gentlemen took the modified oath.

Pacheco, Representative from California, was also seated.

The Colorado case was opened when the House adjourned to Saturday, with the understanding that no business be done that day

Rev. E. T. Baird Acquitted.

RICHMOND, VA., October 17.—Rev. E. T. Baird, late secretary of the Presbyterian Committee of Publication of the Southern General Assembly, who was indicted in the Hustings Court of this city for embezzlement of the funds of the committee, was put upon trial to-day. After examination of the three principal witnesses Judge Guigon stated that he saw no necessity for further proceedings, and this opinion was coincided with by the prosecuting attorney. The jury thereupon, without leaving their seats, rendered a verdict of "not guilty," and then accused was immediately discharged.

Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, October 17.—For the South Atlantic States increasing cloudiness; light variable winds, mostly from the East; stationary temperature; stationary or lower pressure.

The Ohio, &c.

The result of the election in Ohio is no surprise to us, nor do we think it is to the Republicans themselves. Last November with the party united, and backed by the whole power of Grant's Administration, with the whole purse of the Republican party filled as it was with assessments drawn from 100,000 government employees, and with the Presidential election hanging on the result of that State, Hayes was able to carry Ohio by a very small majority.

This year the party is rent in twain. Ben Wade leads the Radical wing in Ohio with a virulence and venom not inferior to that of Conkling in New York The Republican rivals of Stanley Matthews have waged an unceasing warfare against him and the policy of the Administration, and are well satisfied to have a Republican defeat in Ohio as a pretext upon which to charge disaffection to that policy as the cause of the defeat.

In addition the Greenback party and the Workingmen's party have drawn more largely from the Republican than from the Democratic ranks.

But above all the result in Ohio is the verdict of the people of that State on the work of the Electoral Commission. It is their stamp of disapprobation of the ways and means by which a Republican President was foisted on the American people, and their declaration that henceforth they will not co-operate with a party that when fairly defeated at the polls, fraudulently sets aside the people's choice.

Ex-State Senator Nash Unbosoms Himself and is Reported to Implicate Chamberlain.

[Special Despatch to N. Y World.]

COLUMBIA, S. C., October 12.—State Senator W. B. Nash, colored, was called before the Investigation Committee today and confronted with the evidence of his corruption in the recent history of the State. His own testimony was then obtained, implicating others, including, it is said, ex-Governor Chamberlain. He surrenders a large amount of his stolen property and has resigned his position in the State Senate. He is charged, together with his colleagues, S. J. Lee, Whittemore, Smalls and Owens, ex-Land Commissioner Leslie and "Prince" Rivers, colored, among other things, with having received bribes from Patterson and Kimpton in the matter of the Blue Ridge Railroad frauds.

NOTABLE LACES AND JEWELS.

Isabella's Collection---Empress Elizabeth's Emeralds---Wedding Gifts.

[From Frank Leslie's Lady's Journal.]

The young Countess de San Fernando possesses a lace tunic, the like of which is owned by no other lady in the world, Queen Elizabeth alone excepted. Her most Catholic Majesty has a perfect passion for lace, and possesses a collection which is valued at over $1,000,000. This collection is a perfect museum of lace of all kinds, epochs and nationalities. One dress alone, composed entirely of point d'Alencon, is valued at $20,000, and there is a set of flounces in antique guipure which is even more costly. Of the Spanish mantilla veils, her Majesty owns a large number, some of which are worth from $5,000 to $6,000 each. Queen Victoria's passion is for India shawls, and her collection is said to equal in value the laces of Queen Isabella. It includes shawls the art of making which has long been lost, besides all the finest and most delicate marvels of the India looms of the present day, including webs of golden thread, and embroidered with diamonds and pearls.

In respect to jewels, the Empress Elizabeth of Austria possesses the finest emeralds ever worn by woman. They are mounted in a diadem, necklace, and girdle of flowers, the leaves of which are all formed of single emeralds, and the blossoms are composed of diamonds. The Grand Duchess of Saxe-Weimar owns the richest and most perfect collections of Jewels in the world. The finest and largest turquoises and pearls that exist are among the crown jewels of Russia; and the finest sapphires in the world form a part of those of England. Bavaria possesses among her crown jewels a parure of pink diamonds that is perfectly unique.

The value of the wedding gifts of Mlle. d'Albe, niece of the ex-Empress Eugenie, is said to be $1,600,000. One of these was a cameo ring which belonged to Charles V. Eleven necklaces of brilliants adorned the collection. The Duke d'Ossuna, whom she married, is said to be one of the wealthiest personages in the Peninsula.

Among the Earl of Dudley's presents to Miss Moncrieffe before she became his bride, were a diamond diadem which had been the admiration and envy of all Paris, said to be worth $30,000; a bracelet of fifty precious stones of singular purity, which Prince Albert had tried to bargain for in vain; another bracelet with a diamond "of fabulous price" in the centre, and a rich collection of varied assortment additionally. On the wedding morning he presented her with a necklace of five rows of pearls of enormous value, and she wore a dress which contained two thousand yards of point d' Alencon lace, and employed six hundred hands in the making, and was so costly that the Empress Eugenie, for whom it was intended, was obliged to decline it. The noble acquaintances of Miss Moncrieffe, of course, loaded her with presents, and the inhabitants of Dudley begged her acceptance of a bracelet worth five hundred guineas.

The marriage of the Prince of Chimay, the heir to one of the greatest houses in France, to Mlle. Lasseig, a lovely blonde, with a fortune of nine million dollars, left to her by her grandfather, the younger Michel, a once famous banker, not long since elicited much comment. The Paris papers were full of details of her trousseau. Her lingerie alone is valued at 100,000 francs, including twenty-four pairs of sheets, embroidered by hand with the Caraman arms; twenty-four dozen chemises, embroidered and covered with Valenciennes lace, and four lace handkerchiefs with the Caraman arms, each costing from 4,000 to 5,000 francs; a fan in Venice point, enriched with diamonds, and bearing in the centre the arms of Araman and Chimay, and among her jewelry is a necklace consisting of one circle of forty-two large brilliants, with their inner circle, each consisting of thirty-seven brilliants, with a magnificent emerald as a medallion and three superb brilliants as pendants.

After the Pope Dies.

(Rome Letter in the London Times.)

If, as is generally supposed, the Vatican inmates have their intention of concealing for as long as may be possible after the death of Pius IX, the fact that the chair of Peter is vacant, the continual reports the Pope's approaching end, like the cry of the wolf in the fable, may finally result in materially assisting them in carrying out their intention. To call these reports unfounded would be eminently inexact. They have, as later information has always proved, invariably been based upon fluctuations for the Pope's health, and have only been incorrect in so far as the same importance has been attached to them to which they would have been entitled had they concerned any one else, unendowed, as the general run of men are, with the fine constitution and the extraordinary vitality Pius possesses. But this week we have had a series of absolutely false reports, a thing somewhat unusual, for it is a long time since the Liberal papers have manifested any particular concern as to what goes on in the Vatican.

That the Vatican authorities have an interest which will impel them when the Pope's death really occurs to keep the fact secret for as many hours, or even days as may be possible, there can be no doubt. They are under the impression that it may be necessary for the cardinals to enter into conclave immediately, in order to avert dangerous consequences which only the existence of a Pope can prevent. To that end His Holiness, as you have been informed, has signed a special bill, authorizing the sacred college to infringe, if they deem it needful, that rule which requires ten days delay to assemble its distant members. It is believed that when the majority of the cardinals were here in June means were concerted for doing so without the outer world knowing that the summons had gone forth, and in such circumstances, and while such fears prevailed, it is evident that to conceal the Pope's death for even twenty-four hours would be a gain; for, without considering what else might be done in the time, it would enable those cardinals within that distance to reach Rome simultaneously with the news becoming known, and those further off to be well on their way.

As regards the actual condition of the Pope's health, I have reason to believe that since the end of last week it had gradually improved until yesterday, when he had one of his usual fainting fits. It lasted, however, only half an hour, and has not given ground for any increase of apprehension.

The Ohio Election.

[National Republican.]

The indications from Ohio are not very flattering to the Republican cause. We will not yield or claim the State at the present writing. We hope it has gone Republican, but we fear that the Democrats have carried it. We were in Ohio a few weeks since, and at that time we could not enthuse over the prospect of a Republican victory. The Republicans were suffering from extreme lethargy, owing to their want of confidence in the wisdom and efficacy of the new-born policy of President Hayes. It was then evident that many who had become dissatisfied would go with the workingmen—while others were being diverted by the money question—and thus the Republican party was being sapped of its power. Another class of Republicans, who could not and would not ally themselves to these outside organizations, remained at home, and their votes were lost. In this way defeat has probably come to the Republican party in the President's own State. Neither the Republican party nor the Administration will burn any powder over this achievement. The least said about it the better.

STATE NEWS.

Statesville Landmark: It is estimated that the dried fruit trade of Iredell county will, this season, amount to more than thirty thousand dollars.

At the last term of Halifax Inferior Court seven bills were sent before the grand jury against the present Radical Board of County Commissioners and true bills were found as to four of them.

E. C. Harmon, who was convicted of murder at the last term of Watauga court, says the Landmark, is the first person ever convicted of such an offence in Wautauga county.

Charlotte Observer: Sunday morning while the family of N. D. Wallace, Esq., of Morning Star township, was absent from home attending church, a thief broke into the house and stole therefrom $10 in money, finger and ear-rings and other property, to the value, in all, of $40 or $50.

Revenue officials recently made a seizure of Gwynn, Wood & Co.'s tobacco factory at Jonesville, Yadkin county, and about $3,000 worth of other property. The seizure was made on account of technical irregularities alleged to have been discovered in the operation of the factory.

The Hillsboro Recorder says, Mr. Thomas D. Tinnin who has been connected for some months past with the office of Dr. Mott, Collector of Internal Revenue at Statesville, returned home on Thursday last, having been "reformed" out of his place on the ground

The Salisbury Watchman tells that Mr. Hinton James challenged W. H. Kestler, Esq., to settle a difficulty between them "by the code of honor." Mr. Kestler accepted and chose brickbats, the distance 4 miles. The grand jury are already grinning prospectively over that challenge.

Danbury Reporter: On Sunday before last a homicide occurred in this county, in the Egypt settlement, where the counties of Stokes, Forsyth, Guilford and Rockingham join. Kever McKinsey shot and killed George Goode, and on last Friday evening McKinsey was lodged in jail to await examination at the next term of the Superior Court.

Hillsboro Recorder: Now is the season to hear of fires in the tobacco section consequent upon the critical operation of curing. We learn of several losses. Capt. McCullough tells us he had a barn burned last week, Richmond and Cooper lost one at Hurdle's Mill, ex-Sheriff Tapscott lost one in Alamance, and we heard of several in Caswell. The losses usually are from 350 to 500 pounds of tobacco, besides the barn.

The editor of the Hillsboro Recorder who was at Person Court last week, says, the tobacco crop of Person, like that of Caswell is a large one, and is the absorbing topic. Every farmer is busy cutting and curing. The former process is nearly complete, and much of curing is done. The farmers generally do not speak favorably of their success, and we found but few who would admit of satisfactory cures. The heavy rains and damp weather gave much bad color. Some few informed us that they had never done better, but complaint is the rule.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

Governor William Blount's monument at Clarksville, Tenn., will be unveiled, with appropriate ceremonies, on the 25th instant.

A mussel was recently taken from the Tennessee River near Chattanooga, containing five genuine pearls. They are quite lustrous, of good quality, and valuable.

Scarlet-Scalp-That-Burns-Up-His-Wigwan has received a new name since the floods completed what fire began. He is now called at intervals Old-Man-Who-Soaks-His Wigwam.

Senator Patterson is not anxious to be investigated. He wrote to Attorney-General Connor, of South Carolina: "I cannot concur with you that an immediate trial would be well for me or the State."

A Southern paper says that Gen. Toombs has more ridiculous opinions and sayings wrongfully attributed to him than any man in the two hemispheres, not excepting Geo. Francis Train.

Colonel Jessie L. Hieskell, originally of Albemarle county, Virginia, one of the oldest, and formerly one of the most extensive, mail contractors in the United States, died in Harrisonburg, Virginia, on Saturday.

The anxiety of the Sioux chiefs to have copies of their Washington speeches printed and sent them, "all same as white man," is suggestive to literary bureaus and lyceum managers. Those Indians are ripe for a lecture tour. "Man Afraid of His Horses," or "Touch the Clouds," taught broken English, and discoursing on white men's lies, with comic songs by "He Dog," would draw a crowd.

After the recent cyclone in the Gulf of Mexico the beach near Galveston, Texas, was strewn with human bones washed up by the waves, and supposed to be the remains of the persons lost with the City of Waco.

There is a man in Newton county, Georgia, who, during the late civil war, made a vow never to cut his hair or shave until the independence of the Southern Confederacy was established. He has kept his vow inviolate.

The Louisville Courier-Journal recalls that Cassius M. Clay killed a young man named Turner nearly twenty years ago, and says: "Turner was a candidate for the Legislature, and in a political discussion forced the fight on Clay—a thing that was never hard to do."

A colony of Lutheran families from Saxony have purchased several thousand acres of Government land in Kansas. Next spring an additional supply of emigrants from the vicinity of Dresden is expected, and a flourishing settlement is looked forward to. A Lutheran church is to be the first public building.

Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and North Carolina are now attracting more attention than the territories as fields for the investment of labor and capital, and the young men of Louisville, who lack employment here, might do a wise thing to look into the "Southern situation" before going West.

The work of devastation and death has gone on for so long a time in Cuba that both parties are now said to desire that peace, and certainly this country ought to encourage them in any honorable efforts to secure it. The exports of sugar alone from the Havana and Matanzas had declined from 238,458 tons in the first six months of 1875 to 147,924 tons in the same period of 1876; while between 1874 and 1876 the exports to this country had diminished in value from $86,000,000 to $58,000,000—a fall of nearly 32 per cent. It is doubtful, however, whether Cuba will accept the terms which Spain is supposed to be willing to extend, and Cuba is in as favorable an attitude to dictate as the mother country is.

WELCOME, WADE HAMPTON!

North Carolinians, welcome Wade Hampton. No one outside of our borders has so deep a hold upon the affections and the esteem of our people as this noble South Carolinian. As a cavalry leader in time of war he was their admiration. His dashing courage and chivalric bearing will never be forgotten. As a statesman, since the war, he has won the plaudits of both press and people, and deservedly so. His conduct of the campaign against Chamberlain was masterly, and his speeches were brimful of patriotism, hard sense and electric eloquence. He engineered his State through the difficulties of the last winter, with consummate skill, in no single instance making a blunder of serious consequence. As well said by one of our far Southern cotemporaries:

"At one time Wade Hampton stood out amid the fiery excitement that filled the land as a colossal figure; ruling the heat of passion of men with a mastery which has never been surpassed. He stood between two opposing forces, representing the triumph of the one, and holding that triumph in his grasp, when one false step would have imperiled all. He had the happy faculty in those days right time, and saying just what ought to have been said, no less and no more."

Since that time, he has won new laurels as a wise leader, speaking so aptly the sentiments of the Southern people that he has by almost universal consent come to be recognized as one of the truest of their true representatives. None of the statesmen of the South stand forth more conspicuously in this respect. His wise and manly utterances on national topics have made a profound impression everywhere. The North and West were captivated by his speech at the Winnebago fair. It has been well said, that "he went, he spoke, he conquered." Hampton has no doubt done much to restore harmony to the American Republic. He has hastened the approach of the time when the two sections will again fraternize, when past animosities will be allayed and past differences removed, when their interest will be more identified, and when peace, prosperity and cordial friendship will make us the glorious nation our fathers dreamed of, and God designed us to become. The North and South are fast becoming reconciled; old sores are healing; sectional animosity is dying out; and contention and strife are yielding to an era of perfect good will between all parties. It may be safely said that no one is contributing more to this desirable consummation than Wade Hampton. All honor to him!

"The Bourbon a Pestiferous Brother of the Carpet-Bagger."

[Roanoke News.]

Ohio has gone Democratic and yet the voice of the Bourbon is heard in the land. President Hayes has removed from among us the carpet-bagger, and we fain would beg some power to remove his pestiferous brother. A great master of the human heart has said "misfortunes come not as single spies, but in battalions." Would that he could have added and depart likewise in the order of their coming. Then indeed, the milenium of peace and good will would be fallen upon this sadly visited land. Why men of reason and intelligence should turn to the past and brood over misfortunes that court oblivion surpasses our comprehension. In the future of every nation, not debauched by power, or enervated by wealth, are more and greater things than repining. And if we of the South expect aught of material greatness we must keep time to the Democratic heart beat of the North and forget. Why Appomattox court house should ever be remembered by any American, except as a monument of a supreme madness of both North and South, we do not understand. Take from us the Democratic votes of the North, and we find ourselves in a hopeless minority, and the victims of aggressive sectionalism possibly less baleful and better than Bourbonism would make it if in control here. So we say to the Southern Press the great educator of our people, that interest, patriotism and natural prosperity demand that we shall face the future and our destiny. Fortune sends the breeze the rest is for the pilot, if he sleep the crime of the ship wreck is upon his own head. This is the true relation of press and people. And providence forbid we should prove recreant to the trust reposed in us.

Ben Wood.

Wood is seven years younger than Fernando, and was born in Kentucky, accidentally. He started out at twenty-four years old to whip James Gordon Bennett, who, in revenge for the defeat of a police judge by Wood's crowd, the judge being in the habit of giving items to the Herald, published the leading editorial against Ben Wood.

"I bought myself a cowhide," said Ben, "and slipped it into an umbrella. As I went toward the Herald office I thought I saw people pointing at me who had read the Herald's excoriation, for it was the first time I had ever been abused. I climbed to the office and thrust the article into Bennett's face: "Did you write that?" He looked up and said, without flinching, "Young man, what is your name?" "Wood!" He looked at me with affected surprise. "And how old may you be?" "Twenty-four, but what's it of your business?" "Twenty-four," exclaimed Bennett. "twenty-four. And already arrived to such political distinction as to receive the leading editorial notice in a paper of the circulation of the New York Herald. Young man, it ought to be the proudest day o' your life." And, by George! he flattered me clear down those stairs; beat me by brains and good acting."

Years after that Wood, while publishing the rebellious News, was fiercely arraigned by Bennett. In return Wood pulished, day after day, the opinions of great men on Bennett. One day Count Johannes, a very credulous, cracked man, who was in the habit of visiting Bennett at Fort Washington, said: "Mr. Wood, you grieve Mr. Bennett. Let me make it up. Come to Fort Washington and see the Herald chief. You ought to be friends."

"Count," said Wood, "I would not feel justified in going there. But I would like to give a dinner on my birthday to the four most eminent men of this age. You can fix it for me! I want you, of course, as one; Mr. Bennett for another, and George Francis Train and Colorado Jewett!"

"I think I can fix it," said the Count, greatly flattered.

He came back next day. "Well," now said Wood, "is it all arranged, Count?" "I don't think Mr. Bennett was in good humor yesterday," said the Count, reflectively. "Why, what did he say?"

"He said: "Count, Ben Wud is making a dom fool of ye!"

The Ohio Revolution.

[N. Y. Times.]

The stunning Democratic victory in Ohio surpasses the highest hopes of the successful party and strikes the vanquished dumb with amazement. It is not a mere defeat; it is a revolution, and leaves the Republicanism that has woven the greenest chaplets of our history in its better days, in the starless midnight of hopelessness. It is idle to explain that Greenback, Labor and Prohibition diversions decimated the Republican party while the Democracy stood in solid ranks when the decisive battle came upon them. Republicanism was disintegrated, not because its voters loved Greenback, Labor or Prohibition doctrines better, but because they demanded some channel of egress from the befouled Republican temple; and the Democracy stood to their guns because they were out of power; because they wanted to win power, and because Republicanism opened its own gates for the enemy to enter and overwhelm it.

The verdict of Ohio is unmistakable. It is a crushing defeat for President Hayes, and it comes from those who should have been friends as well as from consistent foes. It comes from incongruous elements which found unity without arrangement to strike the fatal blow. He was hated for his faith to the [illegible] he was [illegible] other's crown, and he was deserted by many because of the distrusted leaders who gave him half-hearted support and yet loaded him with their friendship. Judge West opened the campaign by a fatal stab directed at his own vitals, and the party floundered under his awkward efforts to retrieve his irretrievable blunder. Stanley Matthews was a double millstone about the neck of the President and a deadweight upon the tottering party, while cross purposes and a general spirit of vengeance within the Republican household, made it an easy conquest for the practically united Democracy.

Whether the majority for Bishop shall foot up twenty or thirty thousand matters little. It is not less than twenty, and more is needless, for it carries the Legislature and a United States Senator, and dates the final destruction of the debauched Republicanism that was first arraigned at Cincinnati in 1872. It will sweep down the last vestige of hopeful opposition to Democratic success in Pennsylvania, and even Philadelphia will swing from her Republican moorings in November.

Machinery Moving South.

(Norfolk Landmark.)

The war is slowly but surely bringing about some remarkable changes in this country, and among these one of the most important is in the movement of the machinery towards the cotton—the mills to the fields of production. This is illustrated with peculiar force and meaning at Columbus, Georgia, where a prosperous company now manufactures forty-six different kinds of goods, from spool cotton to twelve quarter blankets. Their sales during the last month averaged over $5,000 per day, filling orders from all parts of the South. They have no agents, but everything is sold at the factory. Their ginghams, diapers, ticking, denims, jeans, cassimere, &c., compare favorably with the best products from English and Northern looms of similar quality. The capital of the company is $1,250,000. Their profits for 1876 were $126,875.60. The stock on hand on 1st January last, (time of last report) consisting of cotton, wool, manufactured goods, dye stuffs, chemicals, &c., amounted to $406,461.28; cash and sight exchange $214,232.86; reserve fund $210,630.53. There is a very commodious savings bank connected with the establishment, the books of which show amount due depositors (chiefly employees) $429,417.78. This great factory has been built up at a small inland town (which was devastated during Wilson's raid) since the termination of the war.

Slightly Missed It.

(Chicago Tribune.)

A young woman on West Adams street read some time ago of the cutting courtesy with which a Duchess once silenced a presumptuous youth who was about to light a cigar in her august presence. "Is smoking disagreeable to you, ma'am?" said the p. y. "I do not know, sir; no one has ever smoked in my presence," answered the haughty dame. "That'll be a bully good thing to say some day," said the young woman to herself, and last week she got a chance to ring it in on a gentlemen who said to her: "I beg your pardon—is smoking distasteful to you?" "I do not know," she said, with ineffable stateliness, "no one ever asked me before."

DRUGS.

An Open Letter to the Public.

NEW YORK, October 1, 1877.

I have devoted twenty years of patient study to the Liver and its relations to the human body, in search of a remedy which would restore it, when diseased, to its normal condition. The result of that labor has been the production of

TUTT'S LIVER PILLS.

Their popularity has become so extended and the demand so great as to induce unscrupulous parties to counterfeit them, thereby ROBBING ME of the reward, and the afflicted of their virtues.

To Caution the Public and protect them from vile impositions, I have adopted a new label, which bears my trade-mark and notice of its entry in the Office of the Librarian of Congress, also my signature, thus;

Dr. H. Tutt M. D.

☞ TO COUNTERFEIT THIS IS FORGERY. ☜

Before purchasing, examine the label closely.

THE GENUINE TUTT'S PILLS exert a peculiar influence on the [illegible] Their action is prompt and [illegible] are felt in a few minutes after they are taken. The Liver [illegible] exerts a greater influence over the system than any other organ, and when diseased the entire organism is deranged. It is specially for the [illegible] vital organs that TUTT'S PILLS have proved the most successful remedy known for the afflicted. [illegible] benefits, and a vile imitation [illegible] them?

Let the honest people of America see that they are not defrauded. Scrutinize the label closely, see that it bears all the marks above mentioned, and buy the medicine only from respectable dealers. It can be found everywhere. Very respectfully,

W. H. TUTT.

GREAT BANKRUPT SALE.

United States District Court—Eastern District of North Carolina—In the matter of the Bank of North Carolina, bankrupt.

In Bankruptcy.

At the court house door, in Raleigh, N. C., on Monday, November 12, 1877, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m., I will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, the open book accounts, notes, judgments and other choses in action, the property of THE BANK OF NORTH CAROLINA, in bankruptcy, due from various persons and corporations throughout the State, and amounting in the aggregate to upwards of $200,000. Many of these claims are believed to be valuable, and the debtors will find this to be an excellent opportunity to purchase and settle their debts. Purchasers of judgments will be required to pay the cost of assignment of judgment.

By order of the District Court.

BRYAN'S ELECTRIC BELTS.

PATENTED.

A Self-Cure for all diseases arising from a loss of Vital Force, also Dyspepsia, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Epilepsy, Hysteria, Weak Lungs, Nervous Debility, Weakness, Kidney Complaints Impotency, and Physical Prostration.

This improvement embraces the effective properties of older invantions without requiring Vinegar or other liquid to excite action. The metals in this belt are so nicely adjusted that the heat and moisture of the body is sufficient to evolve the current of Electricity and they are far superior to anything of the kind before offered as a therapeutic curative Medicine. They energize Electric and Magnetic Life, restore the Nervous and Debilitated, and impart New Life and Strength to the waning organism. Standard quality

University Song.

Dedicated to the University Glee Club, October 12, 1877.

BY MRS. C. P. S.

Our Fatherland! Blest be the star
That heralds thee to peace or war;
Wake, while our flag in splendor floats,
Thy poets' dreams, thy minstrels' notes.
Dear land! thy sons salute thee here,
Their watch for thee shall know no fear;
On thousand hills their guard shall firmly stand,
They watch for thee, for thee, their native land.

Where Freedom, Truth and Peace abound,
Such, men may well call hallowed ground,
No dearer boon from heaven we crave
Than here our home, and here our grave.
Dear land! thy sons salute thee here
Their watch for thee shall know no fear;
On thousand hills their guard shall firmly stand,
They watch for thee, for thee, their native land.

O, Carolina! well we love
The murmur of thy dark pine grove;
Thy yellow sands beside the sea,
The lake beneath thy cypress tree.
Dear land! thy sons salute thee here,
Their watch for thee shall know no fear;
On thousand hills their guard shall firmly stand,
They watch for thee. for thee, their native land.

We love thy stately groves of oak,
Thy vines that hang o'er broad Roanoke;
Thy mountains from whose rugged steep,
Catawba's rushing fountains leap
Dear land! thy sons salute thee here,
Their watch for thee shall know no fear;
On thousand hills their guard shall firmly stand,
They watch for thee, for thee, their native land.

Where on the hill the wild bird sings,
Or jasmine's golden censer swings,
Where maidens loitering through the glen,
Hear love's sweet story told again.
'Tis our own land! We greet thee here,
Our watch for thee shall know no fear;
On thousand hills our guard shall firmly stand,
We watch for thee. our own, our native land.

Where o'er the far blue mountain's height,
The red deer waits for morning light;
Or where, through tangled laurel brake,
The night bird's cry, the echoes wake;
'Tis all our own! We greet thee here,
Our loving watch shall know no fear;
Dear fatherland! like brothers firm we stand,
And keep our watch for thee, our native land.

Bright, bright, thy beacon fires shall burn,
A sacred charge from sire to son,
Here, where thy noblest altars flame,
Thy sons their dearest rights shall claim.
Thou art our own! We greet thee here,
From wild Watauga to Cape Fear;
Dear fatherland! like brothers we will stand,
And keep our watch for thee, our native land

'Tis here the Muse in loved retreat,
Hath chose her home, and fixed her seat,
And here for aye we swear to crown
With laurels fresh, thy old renown.
Dear old North State! We greet thee here
Our loving watch shall know no fear;
On thousand hills our guard shall firmly stand,
And keep their watch, their watch for thee dear land.

NEWS NOTES.

Ex-King Amadeo, it is said, is to become a monk.

Senator Morton's father and grandfather are said to have died from paralysis.

Senator Thurman is said to attribute the Democratic victory in Ohio to the registry law.

The Republican journals don't feel like displaying pyramids of Republican States this year.

The Pennsylvania Republican State Central Committee are complaining of their barren treasury.

Forty years ago a missionary was not allowed upon the Fiji Islands; now 40,000 young Fijians attend Sunday school.

An ex-Confederate soldier sits in Hayes' Cabinet, and the ex-Vice President of the ex-Confederacy nominated Mr. Randall for Speakor in the Democratic caucus.

The members of Christ Church, Boston, the oldest church building in the city, still use the the Bible prayer book, and silver ware which were presented by King George II, in 1733.

There is authority for the statement that Judge Key will gladly accept the place on the Bench made vacant by the death of Judge Emmons, and that his friends have so indicated to the President.

It is now announced that the San Francisco Pioneer Bank that failed recently owning a million and a quarter to depositors, may be able to pay them eleven per cent. if the assets are judiciously managed.

Somebody is trying to prove that Falstaff enjoyed single blessedness and had no desire to marry. This is evidently a mistake, for Shakespeare plainly states that Dame Quickly gave the fat knight "the sack."

The workmen engaged in repairing the front of the Florence Cathedral recently, in removing a thick coating of plaster at one of the corners of the building made discovery of seven marble statues, pronounced by connoisseurs to be of the best period of Greek art.

A Washington newspaper correspondent has interviewed Hon. Wm. M. Robbins, member of Congress from the seventh district of this State, as to the result of last week's election in Ohio. Maj. Robbins believes that it exemplifies the aphorism that "time at last makes all things even."

West thinks it was Matthews; Matthews thinks it was West; Garfield thinks it was both; Sherman thinks it was all three; Halsted thinks there were four of them, and Deacon Smith thinks it was all of them, and pretty much everybody else, who lost Ohio. Probably none of them are entirely wrong.

At Queen Victoria's drawing-room receptions three white feathers must adorn the hair of the married lady, and two that of an unmarried lady. Peeresses and their daughters kissed on the cheek by the Queen, but other ladies of less "high degree," kiss her Majesty's hand. The Princess of Wales sometimes takes the Queen's place at these drawing-rooms," in which case the kisses are dispensed with.

Mr. Alexander H. Stephens being called to account for acknowledging the validity of the title of Mr. Hayes, goes further and says: "I think Mr. Hayes' tenure less assailable than that of any President ever inaugurated in the United States. The others held prima facie cases. The matter of his tenure is res adjudicata. He holds his office by the judgment of the highest judicial tribunal ever created in this country."

A CLERGYMAN'S OPINION.—Having had an opportunity to test the excellent qualities of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, I hesitate not to say, it is the best remedy I have ever used in my family.—Rev. Wm. Chapman, Pastor M. E. Church, Georgetown, D. C.

Xanthine Co., Richmond, Va.:

I have used the Xanthine now for three years, and have induced others to try it, and have never known it to fail in accomplishing all you claim for it. It is an excellent tonic a pleasant dressing, removing and preventing dandruff and all unpleasant itching, promoting and preserving the natural growth and color of the hair, and rendering it glossy and pliable. I confidently, cheerfully and knowingly recommend it.

It is the most perfect and economical in use. The Boiler is of new design, being vertical, yet all the heating surface is entirely covered with water, thus preventing the fire from destroying the tubes as is the case, in a few years, in all upright tubular boilers in which the fire passes through the tubes above the water line, soon destroying the exposed end of the tubes causing them to leak.

GREY ROUND-ABOUTS.

All persons who observed our military display yesterday must have been struck with the handsome and somewhat costly uniforms worn by the young soldiers. But we confess that none so stirred our hearts and excited our disloyalty as the regular old Confederate round-abouts worn by the Mecklenburg Rifles. It is cheap, handsome and in good taste. God bless the gray jackets!

LOCAL BRIEFS.

——Target practice at 12, M. to-day on the Fair grounds.

——Special attention is directed to th advertisement of Messrs. W. C. & A. B. Stronach.

——Sheriff Sanford delivered a patient to the Insane Asylum yesterday from Davie county.

——The abstract of taxes for Washington county was received at the Auditor's office yesterday.

——Chatham county was reported yesterday as having only 20 varieties of apples. It should be 200.

The apple from Yancey county that was reported yesterday morning to weigh 23½ ounces weighs 32¼ ounces.

——Only one report at the Mayor's Court yesterday, being a negro drunk and disorderly—laid over until this morning.

——E. L. Harris, the crayon artist is in the city, and will take orders for portraits at the Yarbrough House, or at his exhibit in floral hall.

——Mr. James H. Enniss is having a building erected on his lot on Salisbury street, near his residence, intended for a printing office for the printing of his paper, the "North Carolina Farmer," and, hereafter, his North Carolina Almanac.

——It is quite early to be talking about the next Fair while the present one is in progress, but we suggest an archery premium next time to be contended for by the ladies with bow and arrow, the best shot to take a nice premium.

——We are indebted to Hon. J. J. Davis, M. C., for a copy of the Congressional Record of the 16th inst., containing a full account of the organization of the two Houses of Congress on Monday and other interesting Washington News.

——For the number of people assembled from all sections of the State now in the city, it is the most orderly crowd we have ever seen. We have seen but one drunken man and he was not noisy, but very earnestly inquiring for his "Wade Hampton" hat that he had lost.

A Nugget of Gold.

Mr. William B. Clegg, of Gold Region, Moore county, exhibited in the NEWS office on yesterday, a nugget of gold weighing eight pennyweights and eighteen grains of pure metal. It was picked up on or near the surface on his plantation in the above named county, adjoining the lands on which the celebrated Cagle mine is located which is now being worked profitably by J. Warren & Co. A piece of gold was found on the same land before it came into the possession of the present owner, in almost a pure state, which was sold for $655. The earth on the place is supposed to be rich in surface gold ore and Mr. Clegg intends prospecting and working it as soon as arrangements can be made.

The Bingham Cadets.

This corps made their appearance at the Fair grounds yesterday, and marching in the ring, stacked arms, until 10 o'clock, when they executed many movements in the school of the company. It is needless to say that under the command of that most efficient officer, Col. Robert Bingham, they showed the precision of movement and thoroughness in everything that could be desired. The corps took position on the left of the line during the ceremonies of the review.

Two Ladies.

If "two ladies" at Beaufort will so far confide in our gallantry and prudence as to give us their names, we will gladly publish their communication. It is a rule with newspapers not to publish any communication without having the name of some responsible person as a guarantee of good faith in the author of the relator of the facts. But for this inexorable rule we could not find it in our heart to decline acceding to the wish of "two ladies," nor even one of them, so if one or both will give a responsible name, we will gladly publish the article sent.

The Great Fair of 1877.

SECOND DAY.

THE GRAND EXHIBITION VISITED BY 5,000 PEOPLE.

ARRIVAL OF GOV. HAMPTON, OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

Yesterday was an eventful day in the history of our dear old North State, the city of Raleigh and the North Carolina Agricultural Society. The weather was delightful; a bright unclouded sun shone in splendor upon the grandest pageant and the most immense gathering of people ever witnessed on the Fair grounds of the North Carolina Agricultural Society, on the second day of its annual Fair. Five thousand people were present. There were a large number of visitors from every section of the State, and men of eminence from adjoining States. The ceremonies were very imposing, and came off at the precise time appointed.

North Carolina has done nobly, and the officers of the State Agricultural Society who have had the control and management of the exhibition deserve the thanks of our people, for they have successfully compassed a great and serious work under difficulties that would have appalled men of ordinary mould.

The grand event of the day was the arrival of South Carolina's Noble Governor, Wade Hampton. Everybody, citizen and guest, heartily joined in the rejoicing over the visit of one of the best men and purest patriots in the South, to our soil. The grandeur of the demonstration yesterday, the mighty response of the thousands to it, show that now and forever our annual exposition and grand reunion at the Capitol of the greatest State in the South are held in high esteem by the people.

At 9 o'clock A. M., every avenue leading to the Fair Grounds were thronged, by thousands of people en route to the exhibition. Hillsboro street was crowded by vehicles of every class, while hundreds were seen wending their way on foot. The special trains from Weldon on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, Hamlet and points along the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line, from New Berne, Goldsboro, and points East on the North Carolina Railroad from Charlotte and intermediate points, came in a tran crowded almost beyond seating capacity.

RECEPTION OF GOV. HAMPTON.

At 11 o'clock A. M. a special train left the depot of the North Carolina Railroad Company, in charge of Col. A. B. Andrews, Sup't, etc., with a delegation from the North Carolina Agricultural Society, consisting of Hon. A. A. McKoy, Dr. Eugene Grissom, Col. H. B. Short, and Hon. V. V. Richardson, of Columbus; Col. Wharton J. Green, of Warren, Capt. Sidneyham B. Alexander, of Mecklenburg; F. H. Busbee, Esq., of Wake, accompanied by Capt. E. C. Woodson, of the Observer, Capt. R. T. Fulghum, of the RALEIGH NEWS, and Wm. A. Davis, of the Oxford Torchlight, to meet His Excellency Governor Hampton at some point on the line. Gov. Hampton left Greensboro on a special train (a special car and engine) of the R. & D. R. R. Co., at 8:30 A. M. At Morrisville the train with the delegation waited the arrival of our distinguished guest. At 1 P. M. the train reached Morrisville, where the Hon. A. A. McKoy, chairman of the delegation, received His Excellency, the Governor of South Carolina.

JUDGE MCKOY'S ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

Judge McKoy said:

GOVERNOR HAMPTON: As a delegation of the North Carolina State Agricultural Society, as representatives of North Carolina's best citizens, and individually from official position representing the law and order of our good State by authority of others, and from the bottom of our own hearts, we bid you welcome to the Capitol of our State.

As the Governor of our sister Carolina, we honor you. But of the thousands and faces you will see this day, and of the thousand hands held out to greet you, scarce a thought will be given to your present official position, but the memory will call up your services as General, and the title of Governor, in the hearts of your old soldiers, will be put aside in memory of the higher title of our beloved Military Chief, and to adopt the thought of one of our delegation, Gen. Roberts, who suggested "that Napoleon embraced his marshals," while with him the desire was that he, a subordinate, might be permitted to embrace his leader. And General, as felt that delegate so do we all feel. We honor you as our idol of Conservatism. The leader who could in such a trying ordeal as that through which you have lately passed, so hush his feelings and still his tongue, that no rash thought could find expression, is and must be our idol of Conservatism.

Your painful hours of anxiety during which you toiled, watched and waited the gradual emancipation of your beloved State; your persistence when not one ray of hope could illumine the black horizon of your political sky; your prudence and caution while struggling for right; your genuine and unheard of magnanimity in the hour when fortune crowned the patriots hope, mark you as a moral hero.

And as such, in the name of our good men, our pure women, we tender to you our warmest, heartiest welcome.

Gov. Hampton said:

JUDGE MCKOY: No welcome could be more grateful to my heart than the welcome you have extended to me. In North Carolina no title is more acceptable to me than the title of General. I thank you cordially for this hearty welcome.

AT THE DEPOT.

On the arrival of the train at the depot in the city, Gov. Vance, Col. Holt, and a number of prominent citizens, met Gov. Hampton. Gov. Vance extended to His Excellency a hearty welcome to North Carolina.

Governor Hampton said:

GOVERNOR: "I am sure no welcome could be more grateful to me."

The party then took carriages and proceeded to the Yarbrough House, where rooms were assigned to His Excellency Governor Hampton. Soon thereafter Governors Hampton and Vance, accompanied by Col. Holt, Hon. E. M. Holt, Governor Vance's staff, Chief Marshal Cameron, with a number of his assistants, visited the Fair Grounds. (See report elsewhere.)

At 4 o'clock P. M., the presentation of the flag to the officers and soldiers of the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry, took place in presence of the State Guard. Col. Thomas S. Kenan, Attorney-General, on behalf of the Society, presented the flag.

Col. Kenan said:

Officers and Soldiers of the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry:

In behalf of the North Carolina Agricultural Society, and at the request of its Executive Committee, I have the honor upon this occasion of presenting you this flag, which was awarded as a premium for efficiency in target practice exhibited by you at the last annual exhibition of this Society. And I may be permitted to say, without disparagement to the other splendid companies here to-day, that it is peculiarly gratifying and appropriate that the recipients of this beautiful present are members of a military company, the date of whose organization is anterior to that of any similar body, save one, in the Union.

You are now in the 85th year of your existence. This veteran company is a representative of the old and the new; a link between the past and the present. The record which it has made is indeed an enviable one. Let me therefore urge upon you, its present members, to preserve your organization, and keep that record bright.

I now take pleasure in delivering the flag to the officer whom you have selected to receive it, believing that should you ever be called upon to protect the State, or to aid in defence of the United States, its honor will be guarded by you with that jealous care and ardent patriotism, which characterized the conduct of your immediate predecessors over whom once floated that "banner which is furled."

Mr. Huske, in behalf of the company, received the flag.

Mr. Huske said:

Fellow Soldiers—By the voice of the Independent Company it is my duty to respond to the distinguished soldier and illustrious citizen the echo of whose eloquence still lingers with you. Looking down the avenue of the century that is just gone, the records of the Independent Company are a line of light to exploring eyes. We cannot tell what causes led to the formation of this company, but the rude though manly motto which its founders gave it proves that bold and hardy freemen controlled its deliberations from the beginning. In 1807 British sailors boarded an American vessel, claiming the right to search. The effect of this aggressive act was to rouse a martial spirit in every hamlet throughout the States, and with the Independent Company, the expressive outgrowth of that spirit was a series of resolutions tendering their services to the President of the United States. The answer of the President is in part as follows:

"To the Independent Company—The offer of your services in behalf of your country merits and meets the highest praise, and * * * should your services be requisite this offer of them will be remembered. I tender for your country the thanks you so justly deserve.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

Dated at Washington, July 3, 1807."

In the war of 1812, the Independent Company took the field, and for active service therein her rank was elevated by an act making her captain major and her lieutenants captains. Later an act was passed exempting the members of this company from jury duty. By a unanimous vote the Independent Company declined the exemption with the assertion that no man could stand in her ranks who would shirk his duty as a citizen.

I need not tell you of the part this company took in the late terrible struggle between the States. It is enough to say that, together with other companies of the First Regiment of "magnificent" N. C. volunteers, the Independent Company was bivouacked upon the soil of Virginia when North Carolina took her stand beside her sister States of the South; and that this old company was in fact well represented at Appomatox when the star of the Confederacy went down, not in "brief eclipse, but in an eternal night with no to-morrow's sun."

Scarce had the smoke of conflict cleared away, when the Independent Company rose, Phœnix-like, from the ashes and disorder of defeat and moved forward on [illegible] the 1868 waiting his arrival. Finally a message was received that he would not arrive until 1 p. m., so the men were ordered on the train.

The distance from the camp to the grounds is so great that the battalion commanders desired to thus take the men by train. The weather, which was excessively warm, and the amount of marching required after arrival on the grounds so great that it showed judgment to thus relieve the troops from unnecessary fatigue.

On arrival at the grounds the commands wheeled into line, facing the main entrance, with the left of the line resting at the front gate. Arms were stacked, and the men permitted to leave ranks for a short space. Meanwhile the artillery battalion, under charge of its able and efficient commander, Capt. H. G. Flanner, took position at their pieces in readiness to fire the salute.

After a half hour's rest, the approach of Gov. Hampton was announced, and the first and second battalions fell quickly into line. In a moment the Governor of the noble old Palmetto State appeared, seated by the side of Gov. Vance. At once arms were presented, and amid the ruffle of the drums and the cheers of the enthusiastic troops, these two "Sons of the South" rode down the line and took their places in the procession. The troops resumed the march, wheeling to the right in column of fours, and on reaching the summit of the hill formed platoons. The marching of the commands was simply admirable, and it seemed really wonderful that troops who had only been drilled in battalion drill for one day, should execute the movements with such mechanical precision. The alignment of the ranks was perfect, the marching steady, and the display of the beautifully uniformed companies, with glittering arms and flags fluttering in the breeze, was one never before seen in our State.

The troops passed into the race-course circle and took position facing the grand stand. The guns of the artillery battalion boomed out their welcome in a salute of fifteen guns, and in a moment Gov. Hampton and Gov. Vance and staff entered the circle mounted.

The proper ceremonies of the review then began. First arms were presented and the Governors rode down the line in front, and then passing by the flank, came back in rear of the troops. Position was then taken and the march past began. With the precision of veterans company after company passed by, countermarching and resuming their former position. The officers handled their commands admirably, showed thorough acquaintance with their duties, and every movement was executed with precision and promptitude.

The ceremonies being now ended, arms were stacked and ranks broken.

The presentation of the flag won by the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry last year now took place, which is referred to elsewhere in our columns.

At 5 o'clock the march back to the city began, and the troops arrived at their quarters about 6 o'clock. Our troops have in many a hard fought battle shown their worth in real warfare, and on yesterday they proved their claim to be second to no volunteer troops in the South. To-day the target practice for various valuable prizes occurs.

THE STATE GUARD AT THE FAIR.

Another Gala Day--Arrival of Governor Wade Hampton--Review of the Troops.

By the hour of eight o'clock yesterday morning Camp Russell was enlivened by the strains of music, the roll of the drums and the tramp of hundreds of our troops to be encamped. The various commands were being instructed in company movements and the manual, preparatory to the march out to the grounds and the grand review. The companies showed precision in the movements, and reflect credit upon their commanding officers. The attention of the men to instructions, as well as their general bearing under arms, showed truly of what good material North Carolina soldiers are composed.

The Anson Guards of the Second Battalion arrived on Tuesday night, and were at once assigned to their position in that command.

At 10 o'clock a. m. the line was formed, Adjutant General Jones in command, and the route of march taken down Newbern Avenue. On arrival at the capitol square the line wheeled to the right, and took position fronting the northern gate. After a short delay, His Excellency, Gov. Vance, made his appearance, and took his position in the escorting troops. The march was then resumed towards the railway, where a special train of fifteen cars was in readiness to convey the command to the grounds.

Governor Hampton being [illegible] waiting his arrival. Finally a message was received that he would not arrive until 1 p. m., so the men were ordered on the train.

The distance from the camp to the grounds is so great that the battalion commanders desired to thus take the men by train. The weather, which was excessively warm, and the amount of marching required after arrival on the grounds so great that it showed judgment to thus relieve the troops from unnecessary fatigue.

On arrival at the grounds the commands wheeled into line, facing the main entrance, with the left of the line resting at the front gate. Arms were stacked, and the men permitted to leave ranks for a short space. Meanwhile the artillery battalion, under charge of its able and efficient commander, Capt. H. G. Flanner, took position at their pieces in readiness to fire the salute.

After a half hour's rest, the approach of Gov. Hampton was announced, and the first and second battalions fell quickly into line. In a moment the Governor of the noble old Palmetto State appeared, seated by the side of Gov. Vance. At once arms were presented, and amid the ruffle of the drums and the cheers of the enthusiastic troops, these two "Sons of the South" rode down the line and took their places in the procession. The troops resumed the march, wheeling to the right in column of fours, and on reaching the summit of the hill formed platoons. The marching of the commands was simply admirable, and it seemed really wonderful that troops who had only been drilled in battalion drill for one day, should execute the movements with such mechanical precision. The alignment of the ranks was perfect, the marching steady, and the display of the beautifully uniformed companies, with glittering arms and flags fluttering in the breeze, was one never before seen in our State.

The troops passed into the race-course circle and took position facing the grand stand. The guns of the artillery battalion boomed out their welcome in a salute of fifteen guns, and in a moment Gov. Hampton and Gov. Vance and staff entered the circle mounted.

The proper ceremonies of the review then began. First arms were presented and the Governors rode down the line in front, and then passing by the flank, came back in rear of the troops. Position was then taken and the march past began. With the precision of veterans company after company passed by, countermarching and resuming their former position. The officers handled their commands admirably, showed thorough acquaintance with their duties, and every movement was executed with precision and promptitude.

The ceremonies being now ended, arms were stacked and ranks broken.

The presentation of the flag won by the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry last year now took place, which is referred to elsewhere in our columns.

At 5 o'clock the march back to the city began, and the troops arrived at their quarters about 6 o'clock. Our troops have in many a hard fought battle shown their worth in real warfare, and on yesterday they proved their claim to be second to no volunteer troops in the South. To-day the target practice for various valuable prizes occurs.

Proceedings of a Meeting of the Board of Agriculture, and the County Correspondents, Held in the Senate Chamber Last Night.

The Board of Agriculture and a number of the county correspondents met in the Senate Chamber, in the Capitol, and on motion of Col. L. L. Polk, His Excellency Governor Z. B. Vance was requested to preside, and Col. Chas. R. Jones, of Mecklenburg, was requested to act as secretary.

Col. L. L. Polk announced the fact that the North Carolina Agricultural Society was then assembled in the Hall of the House of Representatives for the purpose of hearing an address by the Hon. J. M. Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, and moved that the meeting adjourn to hear the address. The motion prevailed, and the members assembled in the Hall of the House of Representatives, and after the delivery of the address reassembled in the Senate Chamber, when Gov. Vance again took the chair, and announced the meeting ready for business.

Col. Polk, the Commissioner, explained the object of the meeting to be to consider and approve or reject the plans which had been adopted by the Board of Agriculture, for gathering statistics, information and exhibits from all the counties in regard to our agricultural wealth and resources.

The plans were discussed ad libitum, the Board inviting the severest criticism, by Messrs. Gadsby, of Wayne, Col. W. H. Cheek, of Warren, W. P. Reinhardt, of Catawba, M. S. Robbins, of Randolph, J. W. Albright, of Guilford, Capt. S. B. Alexander, of Mecklenburg, J. R. Thigpen, of Edgecombe, and others.

During the discussion Capt. C. B. Denson, Sec. of the State Agricultural Society appeared in the chamber, as the bearer of the following resolutions, which had been adopted by the State Agricultural Society which were ordered to be spread upon the minutes of this meeting. Before reading them Capt. Denson took occasion to refer to the organization of the State Board of Agriculture, as a co-adjutor of the State Agricultural Society, in a few beautiful and well timed remarks. The following are the resolutions:

Resolved, That the North Carolina Agricultural Society hail with gratification the establishment of the Department of Agriculture of the State of North Carolina since its last annual meeting.

Resolved, That the sincere and cordial thanks of the Society be, and the same are hereby tendered, to the Board of Agriculture, to Col. L. L. Polk, the zealous and faithful Commissioner, and to his able and industrious officers and correspondents throughout the State for the magnificent contribution they have made in behalf of the 17th annual Fair.

Gov. Vance took occasion to make a few appropriate and opportune remarks in regard to the efforts of the Board to get information and statistics of our wealth and agricultural importance, asking the hearty co-operation of the correspondents, and the people generally.

Adjourned.

Accession to the Pen. Gang.

James P. Cherry, Sheriff of Clay county, forwarded to the Auditor's office yesterday, a receipt from the authorities of the Western North Carolina Railroad, for three convicts, sentenced at Clay Superior Court to two years penal servitude on the public works for larceny.

C. Sanford, sheriff of Davie, delivered to the penitentiary six convicts, [illegible] and all convicted of larceny, [illegible] ranging from [illegible] penitentiary. Sheriff Sanford is to be commended for the appearance of the convicts when they reached Raleigh, which is evidence sufficient of their popularity among the stage going public. To-night will be presented the attractive play "Marriage."

H. M. Wilson, Esq., of Yancey, brought two convicts to the penitentiary, both colored and both for larceny; one sentenced for one year, the other for two.

The Farmer and Mechanic.

The first number of this new agricultural Weekly is out and has been freely distributed throughout the city and Fair grounds. The FARMER AND MECHANIC is published under the auspices of the N. C. Board of Agriculture, Capt. Randolph A. Shotwell managing editor. It is intended to make this paper the medium of communication between the Department and the farmers and mechanics of the State and to render it in every respect worthy their patronage. As to the mechanical get-up of the paper, it speaks for itself; we think it is not surpassed by any publication in the South in typographical execution. The price is $2.00 a year, advance. Every farmer and every mechanic, and every family in the State, who has two dollars and can read, ought to subscribe for it.

Accident at the Fair.

As the carriage of Mr. J. P. H. Russ which contained Mrs. Russ and little daughter was being driven from the grand stand in the Fair grounds to the main entrance, yesterday, the kingbolt broke precipitating the front of the carriage to the ground by which the daughter was quite severely bruised on the leg and face. The driver was also considerably hurt by being thrown forward against the foot board. Mrs. Russ escaped with only a considerable fright.

Wake Superior Court.

The Court sat a short time yesterday morning. A jury was impaneled to decide on about twenty cases of alleged lunatics in the county outside of the Asylum, for whom support is claimed by the county according to the act of Assembly on that subject. All but one were decided to be fit subjects for State aid according to the restrictions of the act. The exceptional case was laid over for further evidence.

Justice's Court.

Before Justice Upchurch yesterday the case of the State and J. A. Paschall against Wm. Ross, for misdemeanor, in removing crop from land before payment of rent. After several demonstrations in pitching into each other, the Magistrate finally induced the parties to come to a compromise and the case was dismissed by the defendant paying costs.

Colored Educational Convention.

This convention for the purpose of discussing the educational interests of the colored people of the State, will convene in Commons Hall at the capitol this morning at 10 o'clock, and may continue to-morrow.

Guns and Pistols in Great Variety.

Pistols from 60 cents to $20; guns $2.50 to $150; game bags, shot, powder, caps, and sporting goods in great variety. Julius Lewis & Co., hardware merchants, Raleigh, N. C.

Personal.

Col. John C. Washington of Lenoir, and Capt. James A. Graham of Alamance are in the city, the guests of Col. Walter Clark.

Messrs. John N. Staples, John W. Graham, N. A. Gregory and T. N. Hill are in the city as visitors to the Fair.

Meeting of the Society.

The Agricultural Society met in Commons Hall at 7½ o'clock, President Holt in the chair.

Messrs. A. S. Lee and S. B. Smedes, representatives of the corn exchange of Richmond, Va., were introduced to the meeting.

Secretary Denson announced the business of the evening to be the address of the Hon. Jos. M. Wilson Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the United States, who was introduced by Prof. Kerr, and engaged the careful attention of the meeting in a speech of about an hour's duration, which was replete with statistics gathered from the tenth census.

Gen. Clingman offered the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of the State Agricultural Society of North Carolina be and are hereby tendered to Mr. Jos. M. Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for his able and instructive address.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Society are also due to the United States Department of Agriculture for their public recognition of the State Fair, by sending a representative of their Department, and for their interest in the agricultural prosperity of North Carolina.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Hon. Wm. G. LaDue, commissioner of agriculture, Washington City, D. C.

Secretary Denson introduced Prof. Simmons, of the University, who delivered an interesting and instructive lecture on the Science of Entomology, dwelling with emphasis upon the importance of farmers giving more attention to the study of this subject, as the best means of learning the remedies necessary to counteract the increasing ravages of these pestiferous enemies of the human family.

On motion of Secretary Denson, resolutions were adopted which appear in our report of the meeting of agricultural and county correspondents.

President Holt introduced Prof. Ledoux, of the University, who addressed the meeting on the absolute necessity of applying chemical tests to detect adulterations of fertilizers and seeds, and handled his subject in a masterly manner.

Adjourned until 7½ p. m. to-night.

General Order.

The following general order was issued this morning to the North Carolina State Guard:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
OFFICE OF ADJUTANT GENERAL,
RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 19. 1877.

I. The target practice will take place to-day at ten (10) o'clock a. m., at which hour the rifle teams, under command of their respective captains, will report to Lt. Col. Manly or Lt. Col. Taylor on the Fair Grounds. The teams will leave camp at 8½ o'clock a. m., and proceed directly to the grounds.

II. Commandants of companies will report to the Adjutant-General at 1 o'clock to-day, at the Judges' stand on the Fair Grounds, to receive instructions relative to transportation to their respective homes.

III. Lt. Col. M. P. Taylor will act as Field-officer of the Day for to-day.

By order of the Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

JOHNSTONE JONES,
Adjutant-General.

Tucker Hall.

Rose and Harry Watkins were greeted with a packed house last night to witness the play of Hidden Hand. The acting was spirited and met the hearty applause of the audience. The warm reception given these clever artistes on their successive year of their appearance in Raleigh is evidence sufficient of their popularity among the stage going public. To-night will be presented the attractive play "Marriage."

L. R. Wyatt.

(Successor to Rand & Wyatt,) will continue the wholesale and retail grocery and cotton business at the old stand, where he will be pleased to serve customers and friends of the late firm with First Class Flour, Bacon, Lard, Sugar, Coffee, Molasses, Salt, Bagging and Ties &c., at prices to suit.

Consignments of Cotton, Flour &c., solicited for storage and sale which will have prompt attention in sales and returns.
